An estimated 31 percent of food goes uneaten at the retail and consumer levels; that’s about $160 billion in food.

In 2019, nearly 14 million households experienced food insecurity.

Gleaning – collecting and donating excess foods – addresses both food waste and food insecurity.

Gleaning donations help those in need eat healthier diets.

Gleaning is a great off-hours opportunity for feds, friends, and families to give back.
